

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The eyeglass frames for mounting magnifying lenses according to the present invention comprise support units each having an engagement space, each positioned on inner side of each lens frame to match each eye of a wearer. A magnifying lens system is incorporated in the engagement space, a pair of magnifying main units having an ocular tube is engaged in the ocular tube and is removably mounted on a support unit, which is engaged at the ocular tube and engaged by a fixing mechanism.